

Historical Geography

New Editorial Team

Historical Geography is pleased to announce a new editorial team of Dydia DeLyser, Karen Morin, and Garth Myers for Volume 35 (2007). Despite some difficulties stemming from budget concerns at LSU caused by hurricanes Katrina and Rita, the journal continues to publish and accept manuscripts.

The upcoming theme for the 2007 volume will be Parks. Guest editors will be Terry Young and Lary Dilsaver. In addition, to the special theme, the new editors are particularly interested in receiving submissions for the Research section for 2007. All manuscripts are subject to full peer review before acceptance. Historical Geography welcomes manuscripts from graduate students, emerging scholars, and those with more experience.

You may send articles to any of the co-editors:
